

The Knight and the Dragon

By Tomie de Paula

A knight and a dragon are rookies at the art of war. Neither has ever fought anyone. They practice and practice, and practice some more. The day of the big fight, they discover that neither is very good at knight and dragon fighting. With the help of a princess they make peace and open a restaurant that specializes in flame broiled barbecued meats.

Value or skill:

Peace making